VILLA ADA

COSTA SMERALDA, SARDINIA

Villa Ada is a breathtaking beachfront estate with a private dock, nestled into a rolling emerald meadow near Portisco on Sardinia's Costa Smeralda. Conceived as a daring homage to earth-sheltered living, this visionary residence celebrates a refined, eco-conscious opulence in harmony with its natural surroundings. Sweeping 270-degree panoramas take in Porto Rotondo, the Island of Mortorio and the iconic Cala di Volpe Bay, with the region's most coveted beaches, coves and marinas close at hand.

Emerging discreetly from the gentle incline of the land, the residence reveals interiors that scintillate with natural light. Industrial elegance defines this extraordinary concept home, where sculptural reinforced-concrete surfaces play with dramatic angles and bold geometries, and expansive glass opens the fluid, multilevel layout to the landscape. Rich wood accents, curated mid-century pieces and spectacular sunken lounges evoke the glamorous decadence of the seventies. As night falls, a retractable canvas transforms the lounge into a private cinema beneath the stars. Vibrant beach-inspired furnishings animate the common spaces, while glass finishes showcase vivid contemporary artworks in a captivating interplay of texture and color. Villa Ada offers eight resplendent bedroom suites accommodating 15 guests, each meticulously designed with its own indulgent ensuite bathroom. A home office, wine storage, a sound system and a garage complete the roster of amenities.

Villa Ada comes to its fullest expression outdoors, where nearly two acres of lush meadow and Mediterranean gardens unfold down a gentle slope to the shimmering coastline. A heated saltwater pool, an outdoor gym and terraces for al fresco dining invite days of vitality and leisure, while farm-to-table feasts and BBQs unfold to music from the outdoor sound system. A private shoreline with an exclusive dock completes the estate, inviting nautical exploration along the coast.
