VILLA CHIUSA

MONTALCINO, TUSCANY

Villa Chiusa is an idyllic Italianate country manor belonging to the spellbinding grounds of the Rosewood Castiglion del Bosco estate. A former police station, this estate has been lovingly refurbished to the highest aesthetic standards, paying homage to an illustrious local history. Boasting awe-inspiring panoramas, the whole of the Val D'Orcia region unravels before guests. A divine pastoral escape awaits in proximity to Montalcino and world-class gastronomic experiences.

Interiors curate an uncanny sense of Italianicity, presenting plenty of traditional Tuscan details. Country home nostalgia abounds with gorgeous swinging French doors leading from the timelessly elegant common rooms. Terracotta floors, arched doorways, and beamed ceilings define the light-filled interiors, an exemplary seating room reveling in high culture prestige. Classicly beautiful plush seating arrangements with regal burgundy carpets and a velour ottoman embrace a traditional limestone fireplace. A bright and neutral media room is a lovely entertaining space garnished with romanticist landscape paintings enveloping the area with old-world pastoral refinement. A fully authentic provincial-style kitchen is updated with top-of-the-line appliances with ample countertops curating the ultimate backdrop for rediscovering some classic traditional Italian dishes. This dazzling luxury vacation rental offers four sumptuous ensuite bedrooms, configured with three in the main residence and one in the separate guest house. Exceptionally zoned-out, each of the eight guests is affording total lodging flexibility and comfort.

The incredible outdoors are outfitted with top-notch facilities, including a large heated pool that juts out dramatically over endless countryside views. A pool house with a kitchenette is equipped for all-day outside recreation with friends and family. A private golf course on the premises provides a unique way of acquainting oneself with the aromatic local flora.
